A junior chaperone at Kids Kamp may serve as a camp director's aide (helper/go for) or he/she may be assigned to a chaperone to serve as an extra pair of hands and feet. Junior chaperones are to be respected, but are not in a position of authority over campers. They are not like an older sibling, rather like a helper for the adult leadership. In your opinion, is the above named junior chaperone at a spiritual and emotional maturity level to be a helper working with third through sixth graders?
